

Traffic Lawyers Red Deer

Traffic Lawyers Red Deer - In response to the various new challenges that are experienced by the business of transportation, our firm's transportation law assistance have changed in recent years. Nowadays, we presently have a diverse team of transportation industry professionals providing a variety of legal services, where we previously just concentrated mainly on advising and representing motor carriers, like buses and trucks.

We assist our clients to know the emerging issues and trends in transportation law affecting their businesses. We are involved in the three North American transportation lawyers' associations, and participate in many of their committees. We are usually called upon to present papers regarding topical matters at conferences. And we work in order to maintain close relations along with industry participants and our peers throughout North America.
